Air show 2000 to rock Nellis

By Ms. Stephanie Pittman
99th Services Squadron

Put on your seat belts and get ready for great entertainment at this year's Air Show. The House of Blues is bringing in some headline acts to make an outstanding event even better.

Air Shows are usually famous for planes, not entertainment. This year, Nellis is bringing both to the Las Vegas community.

Set to play at the Air Show 2000 May 6 are Jim Belushi and the Sacred Hearts Band, Youth Ambassadors, The Coates Twins, Loveshack, Willie Jaye, Steel Wheels and The Maxx.

Jim Belushi and the Sacred Hearts Band brings a taste of Blues mixed with Rock. If you like what Mr. Belushi can do on the big screen, wait until you see him in concert.

The Coates Twins had a number one hit in 1989 entitled, "Look At me Boy," and will be performing their own style of county/rock music.

Willie Jay, also known as the "Texas Hurricane," is no stranger to the blues. He has toured the world opening for many national blues artists including KoKo Taylor, Etta James, B.B. King and James Cotton and the Neville Brothers.

Steel Wheels is a Rolling Stones tribute band. Band members not only look like the real thing, they sound like it too.

Loveshack is a house band from the Texas Station that plays a variety of 80's music.

The Maxx band has played at the Venetian, and will add a touch of rock and roll and disco.

The Youth Ambassadors are a group of teens from all over the Las Vegas area. They will perform a high energy show designed to reach the youth of today with a positive message.

In-between acts, D. Jay's Entertainment will perform.

Bring the family out to the Nellis 2000 Air Show for good food, flashy planes and incredible tunes.
